Re: Amendments to the General Power Contract Provisions and Parker Davis
Contracts

Dear Ms. Gray:

Aha Macav Power Service (AMPS) has reviewed the proposed revisions to Western's General Power Contract Provisions (GPCP) and shares many of the concerns expressed by some of Western's customers. In general, we are concerned about the language that could possibly limit our ability/rights to challenge or review Western's administrative decisions. As you are well aware the Fort Mojave Indian Tribe is a recognized Native American Tribe, and the suggested language may be in conflict with the trust responsibility of the United States towards Native American Tribes. In addition, we would like to see the limits/uses of advanced funding more clearly defined. AMPS will continue to work with you and other customers to resolve these issues.

Sincerely,

William L. Cyr
